DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the applicant's admitted prior art (APA) in view of Hu et al. (6,722,949), Eaton (6,641,462), and Wada et al. (6,413,149).

The (APA) is discussed on pages 1 and 2 of the specification and illustrated in Fig.

5. The (APA) includes the structure which makes up the claimed invention except for means for pressurizing the slurry, a slurry supply tube and a water slurry tube through the rotating shaft, or electromagnetic valves. Hu et al. ('949) teaches a polishing slurry delivery system having a pump for pressurized slurry delivery; a series of flow controlled two or three way valves, and a controller/data acquisition for receiving a control signal from the CMP apparatus. Eaton ('462) teaches a fluid delivery system having a slurry supply tube and a coolant supply tube through the rotating shaft. Wada et al. ('149) teaches the use of electromagnetic valves in a polishing fluid circuit to control the flow. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the polishing apparatus of the applicant's admitted prior art, by providing a pump to pressurize the slurry supply, by using electromagnetic valves for controlling the flow of slurry, and providing a slurry delivery tube and a coolant delivery tube through the rotating shaft of the apparatus, as each of these features were known in the art at the time of the invention.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Dyer discloses a dynamic slurry distribution control for CMP. Hsu et al. disclose a CMP system which adjusts the amount of slurry supplied to the polishing platen.
